Nisin is a polycyclic antibacterial peptide produced by the bacterium Lactococcus lactis that is used as a food preservative. In the food industry, nisin is obtained from the culturing of L. lactis on natural substrates, such as milk or dextrose, and it is not chemically synthesized. In the last several years, global market of Nisin developed rapidly, with a revenue average growth rate of 3.4% during 2014 to 2019. In 2018, global revenue of Nisin is nearly 162 M USD; the actual sales are about 2860 MT. Increasing population, growing awareness, increase in disposable income, and emerging economies are influencing the overall demand for nisin.

The global nisin market is, however, currently restrained by precise production; as the production process of nisin is highly sensitive and requires a lot of precision. If, by chance, there is any imbalance in the lactate concentration beyond a standard level, and a decrease in the pH level, it can drastically affect the final end product, which is expected to be a significant restraining factor for the growth of the nisin market.

This report focuses on Nisin volume and value at global level, regional level and company level.
